Fit forever – faster than ever ...

Cargraphic is making classic 911's authentically fast

You're never too old to keep fit, says an old health motto. A saying quite to the taste of classic 911's, believes Michael Schnarr, CEO of Cargraphic, a customizing company with real heritage. "A full-blooded sports car like this would rather do a few fast laps every day than standing around in a heated garage." That such a classic – even the initial 1960's model – is ready for more than exhibition rallies is shown by the extensive range of Cargraphic performance parts, largely of their own development and production. As a company with a 25 year history, they have picked up a certain expertise. Quality aluminium, carbon fibre and glass fibre body parts cut vehicle weight as drastically as you could wish for on almost the entire 911 generation, while high-tech updates for cylinders and pistons ramp up engine power and a speed shift rolls you more smoothly through the gears. A house speciality are the high quality stainless steel exhausts, of their own manufacture. For the aspirated versions of Porsche 911 G Models, the firm also offers a complete engine and exhaust system conversion kit that will boost engine performance from 170 kW/231 PS to 185 kW/252 PS. Cargraphic also naturally offer suitable sports braking systems to rein the horses in appropriately if the need arises.

Power's not everything: if you want to be fast, you need the right chassis as well. Even the oldest Porsches still astonish today with their unbroken driving pleasure and above-average dynamism. But if you want to measure up to the opposition today or even take part in classic car racing, you'll need some urgent updates.

As officially certified BILSTEIN chassis experts, Cargraphic has a huge amount of know-how about new and classic vehicles from the widest spectrum of car manufacturers. From chassis-lowering springs to complete coilover suspensions with stabilisers, the whole range is here. Of course, those who get their thrills on the race track get a certificated rollover cage at Cargraphic, and suitable bucket seats, too. But whatever components you settle on in the end, you shouldn't pass up on a nice set of single- or three-part rims, developed and produced by Cargraphic themselves. All of the company's wheels and parts are on display on www.cargraphic.de. And, made of good stuff though it is, if your beloved 911 is visited by one affliction or another, the Landau-based firm offers a large selection of series-specific spare parts, from fenders to convertible tops.
